Business Professional Exchange

A fellowship dedicated to assisting white collar professionals re-entering the labor market has been established for the region.

The Business & Professional Exchange (BPE) provides business and professional staff and middle- and upper-level managers with a forum to develop re-employment strategies and to network with employers and one another on a weekly basis.

Employers are encouraged to utilize BPE as a potential source for filling their white collar position vacancies. From an HR perspective, BPE is a great place to find qualified and experienced professionals. At any given Monday or Tuesday morning BPE meeting, one could find Electrical, Mechanical, Industrial Engineers, Human Resource Officers, Project Directors, and Equipment Manufacturer Sales Professionals with international experience managing multi-million dollar accounts.

BPE invites you to check us out. To attend meetings in either Lafayette or Kokomo, or to distribute or receive additional information, simply contact:

Chris Waymire, the local BPE chapter president

High School Equivalency (HSE) Preparation

Why do people take the High School Equivalency tests? Students who have not yet graduated from high school generally consider the High School Equivalency Diploma for one of two reasons: to continue their education and get into college, or to get a job that requires a high school diploma. The High School Equivalency Diploma is widely accepted by employers as an alternative to a traditional high school diploma from an accredited high school.
